

Learning a foreign language is more than just a boost to your CV or handy for travelling. It will make you smarter, more decisive and even better at English. Physiological studies have found that speaking two or more languages is a great asset to the cognitive process. The brains of bilingual people operate differently than single language speakers, and these differences offer several mental benefits. People who begin language study in their adult lives can still achieve the same levels of fluency as a young learner, and still reap the same mental benefits, too, some of which are:

- ▶ You become smarter
- ▶ You build multitasking skills
- ▶ You stave off Alzheimer's and dementia
- ▶ Your memory improves
- ▶ You become more perceptive
- ▶ Your decision-making skills improve
- ▶ You improve your English

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLASSES FOR ADULTS

Whatever doubts you have, you really can learn another language. Every excuse that people give for failing to learn a second language, be it too old, not enough time, wrong genes, none of them stand up!

The world is changing fast. More companies than ever are doing business in several countries around the world, but they can't do it without hiring globally-minded people who can speak at least one foreign language. Learning a second language opens up many career opportunities and as such improves ones' employment prospects. Even in small, local companies, the ability to speak a second language will give you an advantage over those who don't.

Did you know that recent studies have shown that, no matter how old you are, speaking a second language daily really can boost cognitive development and improve your memory! It also aids longer attention spans and reduces the risk of age-related cognitive decline.

Language and culture are intimately linked. By learning another language you will be exposed to another culture outside of your own. If there is a culture or country that you'd like to understand better, or someone you'd like to know better in that country, then the best way you can enrich that experience is by learning to speak their language. The world is full of works of creative art from other cultures. Learn to appreciate some of them in their original language!
